Preparatory and After Treatment in Operative Cases

By HERMAN A. HAUBOLD, M. D.,

Professor of Clinical Surgery and Demonstrator of Operative Surgery, University and Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York.

Cloth, $6.00 Net.

It is the intention of the writer to furnish a work from which the practitioner can draw information with regard to the handling of a case to be operated upon from the time the decision to operate is reached up to the making of the incision, and then take up the case again from the time the operative technic is ended until recovery is complete.
